The German Federal Railroad is owned and operated as an integral part of the German Government.

Paragraph 1 of Article 87 of the German Constitution translated into English reads in pertinent part as follows:

"The Foreign Service, the Federal Finance Administration, the Federal Railroads, the Federal Post Office, and in accordance with Article 89 the Administration of the Federal Waterways and Navigation, are managed by the Federal Government itself, each department with its own administrative substructure."

Section 1 of the Federal Railroad Law, enacted December 13, 1951, provides as follows:

"The Federal Republic of Germany administers under the name "German Federal Railroad" the federal railroad property as a separate fund with its own economic and accounting management, but without being a separate legal entity."

Section 6 of the Federal Railroad Law provides in substance that the offices of the German Federal Railroad as far as no other provision is made in its administrative regulations are federal government offices, and Paragraph (3) of that section provides that the performance of the duties of the German Federal Railroad is governmental service.

10. If the foreign principal is an organization and is not owned or controlled by a foreign government, foreign political party or other foreign principal, state who owns and controls it.
